3:15-4:15 pm	Using Perl Scripts with Create Lists  Steve Heser, Library Systems Administrator, Milwaukee County Federated Library System (MCFLS) It's common knowledge that Create Lists is one of most useful and flexible tools in Millennium. Would you be surprised to learn that you can take those review files in Create Lists and generate html pages that link directly to your catalog? With some technology, a little persistence and a Perl script, you can make your review files come alive. In this session you will learn what it takes to use the scripting language Perl, a primer on how it works, and how MCFLS has used Perl to display holds information for collection development purposes.	Fritsch. Room 172

3:15-4:15 pm	Automating Collection Development and Outsourcing Copy Cataloging  Allison Reeves, Associate Director &amp; Access Services Librarian, Carroll College How can a small library survive when everyone is working two or three jobs within the library? The answer for the Carroll College Library was to automate and outsource. In an effort to maximize staff and enhance customer service for patrons, the Todd Wehr Memorial Library of Carroll College is using Innovative, YBP and PromptCat to automate collection development, streamline acquisitions and outsource copy cataloging. This session will go over the steps of implementation and address the results of the new work flow established during the 2004/2005 fiscal year.	Niemann Media Theatre. Room 159
3:15-4:15 pm	Put Yourself On Notice (Automatically), Millennium Notices  Bill Topritzhofer, Coordinator and Technical Support Specialist, SWITCH Library Consortium As of Millennium Silver, Millennium Circulation features Auto Notices which allow libraries to save notice settings/parameters and create a schedule for the automatic generation (and sending/printing) of all types of circ notices. In addition, Silver features new courtesy (or "pre-") notices that allow libraries to notify their patrons that materials will be due before the item becomes overdue. This session will go over the steps for setting up both courtesy notices and automated notices, and will address circulation parameters in Millennium.	Mullen. Room 170
